

Say Hello to your very own book of Quotes

QuotationsBook

Quotes by Chapman, Maria Weston

from QuotationsBook.com

Maria Weston, Maria Weston Chapman (July 24, 1806 - 1885) was an American abolitionist. She was elected to the executive committee of the American Anti-Slavery Society in 1839 and from 1839 until 1842, she served as editor of the anti-slavery journal, Non-Resistant.

We may draw good out of evil; we must not do evil, that good may come.

- Chapman, Maria Weston

Let us rise in the moral power of womanhood; and give utterance to the voice of outraged mercy, and insulted justice, and eternal truth, and mighty love and holy freedom.

- Chapman, Maria Weston

Slavery can only be abolished by raising the character of the people who compose the nation; and that can be done only by showing them a higher one.

- Chapman, Maria Weston

QuotationsBook