Amelia Mary Earhart (July 24, 1897 - missing as of July 2, 1937), daughter of Edwin and Amy Earhart, was an American aviator and noted early female pilot who mysteriously disappeared over the Pacific Ocean during a circumnavigational flight in 1937.

Women must pay for everything. They do get more glory than men for comparable feats, But, they also get more notoriety when they crash.

- Earhart, Amelia

Women must try to do things as men have tried. When they fail their failure must be but a challenge to others.

- Earhart, Amelia

The effect of having other interests beyond those domestic works well. The more one does and sees and feels, the more one is able to do, and the more genuine may be one's appreciation of fundamental things like home, and love, and understanding companionship.

- Earhart, Amelia

The woman who can create her own job is the woman who will win fame and fortune.

- Earhart, Amelia

Adventure is worthwhile.

- Earhart, Amelia

Courage is the price that life exacts for granting peace. The soul that knows it not, knows no release from little things; knows not the livid loneliness of fear.
