

Say Hello to your very own book of Quotes

QuotationsBook

Quotes by Blessington, Marguerite Gardiner, Countess of from QuotationsBook.com

Genius is the gold in the mine; talent is the miner who works and brings it out.

- Blessington, Marguerite Gardiner, Countess of

We never respect those who amuse us, however we may smile at their comic powers.

- Blessington, Marguerite Gardiner, Countess of Love matches are made by people who are content, for a month of honey, to condemn themselves to a life of vinegar.

- Blessington, Marguerite Gardiner, Countess of

There is no cosmetic for beauty like happiness.

- Blessington, Marguerite Gardiner, Countess of

Superstition is only the fear of belief, while religion is the confidence.

- Blessington, Marguerite Gardiner, Countess of

The chief prerequisite for a escort is to have a flexible conscience and an inflexible politeness.

- Blessington, Marguerite Gardiner, Countess of

QuotationsBook