Language is a dangerous tool, that when misused, can result in nonsense.

- Wakcher, Michael

If all complaints had to be accompanied by the submission of a delicious sandwich then fewer people would voice them while more would be willing to listen.

- Wakcher, Michael

With enough verbs and prepositions, anything can happen.

- Wakcher, Michael

I urge everyone against choosing their dying words ahead of time. I said mine years ago and now I look like quite the fool.

- Wakcher, Michael

To please a woman is to say 'please' to a woman...but at other times not.

- Wakcher, Michael

A lie is just the truth masquerading as bullshit.

- Wakcher, Michael

The sweetness of victory is undermined only by its lack of nutritional content.

- Wakcher, Michael

A physicist's journey starts with putting two numbers together, and ends with taking the Universe apart.

- Wakcher, Michael

Sharing great wisdom in the company of fools may lead them to take you as one of their own.
