

Say Hello to your very own book of Quotes

QuotationsBook

Quotes by Parslow, Eric

from QuotationsBook.com

American writer. (1969-present)

Revolution is a tool of the past. A revolving door for corruption. The time has come for an Evolution for all humanity. Violence and hatred have no place in an Evolution.

- Parslow, Eric

Substantive abandonment of convention is evidence of mastery.

- Parslow, Eric

Anything and everything, physical or otherwise, is defined by its absence.

- Parslow, Eric

Truth and honesty are quite different. What a person believes to be true always follows when honesty leads the way. But truth can be asserted when one is being dishonest as well.

- Parslow, Eric

When being dishonest, people can still tell the truth. Be mindful of the treacherous that do not lie.

- Parslow, Eric

Absence of communication between necessarily linked parties ensures eventual conflict.

- Parslow, Eric

The notion of implied meaning is the root of misunderstanding.

- Parslow, Eric

Competing with an other is exhilarating, challenging, and healthy. That is what Games are for. When competition is brought into the social arena it undermines the competitor's self-esteem and confidence. It is a very subtle process. One we must be sensitive to, especially when evaluating our own motivations and behavior.

- Parslow, Eric

Life is the dynamic, creative edge of reality.

- Parslow, Eric

The profound nature of relativity is not merely an abstraction of physics, it also explains why the distance from 1 to 1 million is greater than from 3 million to 5 million.

- Parslow, Eric

One of the keys to wealth is to understand why & how the distance from 1 to 1 million is greater than the distance from 3 million to 5 million.

- Parslow, Eric

The owner of a residence is the one who lives in it. Landlords and rent are manufactured tools of oppression.

- Parslow, Eric

Jazz is the art of skipping obvious convention while still following it.

- Parslow, Eric

Race is a lazy mind's tool for identifying culture.

- Parslow, Eric

Two wrongs don't make a right, but three lefts do!

- Parslow, Eric

Mass is resistance to motion.

- Parslow, Eric

Anarchy is the ultimate destination of any positively evolving society.

- Parslow, Eric

QuotationsBook