Quotes about Dissipation

from QuotationsBook.com

Voluptuaries, consumed by their senses, always begin by flinging themselves with a great display of frenzy into an abyss. But they survive, they come to the surface again. And they develop a routine of the abyss: It's four o'clock. At five I have my abyss...

- Colette, Sidonie Gabrielle

Dissipation is a form of self-sacrifice.

- Hoffer, Eric

They had both noticed that a life of dissipation sometimes gave to a face the look of gaunt suffering spirituality that a life of asceticism was supposed to give and quite often did not.

- Porter, Katherine Anne
