Quotes about Rain

from QuotationsBook.com

There's always a period of curious fear between the first sweet-smelling breeze and the time when the rain comes cracking down.

- Delillo, Don

Still falls the rain -- dark as the world of man, black as our loss -- blind as the nineteen hundred and forty nails upon the Cross.

- Sitwell, Dame Edith

To watch this crystal globe just sent from heaven to associate with me. While these clouds and this somber drizzling weather shut all in, we two draw nearer and know one another. The gathering in of the clouds with the last rush and dying breath of the wind, and then the regular dripping of twigs and leaves the country over, the impression of inward comfort and Sociableness, the drenched stubble and trees that drop beads on you as you pass, their dim outline seen through the rain on all sides drooping in sympathy with yourself. These are my undisputed territory. This is Nature's English comfort.

- Thoreau, Henry David

Rain is grace; rain is the sky condescending to the earth; without rain, there would be no life.

- Updike, John
